To whom it may concern,

I've worked with Scott Costa since he built the Perry residence that I designed in 2006. I tend to push the envelope of what most framers are willing to accept to achieve the effect that I am shooting for. Scott understands my intent and works with me to get it built. That is unusual, as most framers don't like to stay too much from conventional construction.

All my clients and consultants like to work with Scott and refer him to their friends. I have never heard anything but compliments from them. I also notice that Scott has a great relationship with all his subs. That helps me a lot in pushing them to complete some of my more finicky details. With Scott, I feel like we are on the same team and that makes the difference between a project being enjoyable or just another job.

I highly recommend Scott and know you will not be disappointed. Feel free to call me if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Francis Garcia - Architect
